

FRIEDMUND NEUMANN PRIZE 2019

for outstanding basic research of young scientists

The Schering Stiftung awards annually the Friedmund Neumann Prize to young scientists for outstanding basic research in human biology, organic chemistry or human medicine. The prize is directed at young scientists who have completed their dissertation and have already developed a distinctive scientific profile. The award aims to support them in their efforts to establish themselves as researchers and scientists. It carries a prize money of 10,000 EUR.

The prize is dedicated to the memory of Prof. Dr. vet. med. Friedmund Neumann (1935-2007) in honor of his groundbreaking research on modern gestagens and his commitment to promoting young scientists.

INFORMATION ON THE PRIZE & THE NOMINATION PROCEDURE

Prize Money 10,000 EUR | There are no conditions attached to the prize money.

Nomination Criteria

- Excellent dissertation within the last 6 years (justified exceptions may be accepted)
