

Hygiene and protection measures for your visit

With the exhibition PushMi PullYu by the artists' collective Hyphen-Labs, the Schering Stiftung finally opens its Project Space to the public again. The period of closure has shown us that the traffic in the Project Space is particularly enriching for our foundation's work. We are therefore very pleased to welcome you back soon and to benefit from the exchange with you.

In the course of the reopening, comprehensive protective measures were taken to protect our visitors and our team in accordance with the Hygiene Framework Concept for Cultural Institutions in the State of Berlin. The total number of permitted visitors in the exhibition room is limited to 6 persons. Furthermore, we ask you to visit the exhibition only if you feel healthy.

Please observe the following hygiene and protective measures during your visit:

Keep your distance

Please always maintain a minimum distance of 1.5 m from other people and avoid direct physical contact.

Wear mouth and nose protection

Our employees wear a mouth and nose cover for your and their own safety. We ask you to wear such protection as well. If you do not have a protective mask, we will gladly provide you with one free of charge.

Disinfect hands

Please disinfect your hands before entering the Project Space. Disinfectant can be found in the entrance area.

Observe sneezing and coughing etiquette

Please cough or sneeze in the crook of your arm. Turn away from other people and avoid touching your face with your hands.

Cleanliness

In order to maintain the current hygiene standards on site, much used surfaces are cleaned and disinfected several times a day.

Many thanks for your understanding!

We are looking forward to your visit.
